

PRÁCTICA 1 de XML: DTD

This exercise consists of creating an XML document and a DTD document that organizes it. The information to enter in the XML document is up to you, being able to use the form document made in the HTML and DOM parts. The document must contain different elements and attributes, following the indications of the documentation regarding grammar and rules.

Remember that there must be a single root element. However, you can later add as many elements as you want, even if they are repeated. Use different characters and add attributes to give more information to the exercise.
